Forecast For Northwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Wednesday 03 Mar 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Many parts dry overnight and into the morning.

This Evening and Tonight:
Some clear spells at first in the north but soon turning cloudy for most through the night. There is a chance of some light rain in Pennine areas, possibly turning wintry over hills. Risk of frost forming under clear skies. Minimum temperature -2 deg C (28 deg F).

Thursday:
A dry and rather cloudy start for most. A spell of patchy rain from the northeast will push across the region through the afternoon. Clearer and chillier conditions following overnight. Maximum temperature 8 deg C (46 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
A cold start with frost on Friday and Saturday, but both days largely fine with plenty of sunshine. Clouding over on Sunday with patchy rain possible later.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.